Alex's practice focuses on complex commercial litigation.

Civil Litigation

Alex represents clients in multiple state and federal courts across the country. He has nearly 10 years of experience litigating all types of complex commercial matters, including business torts, business divorce, contracts, construction, employment, financial services, general fraud, intellectual property, and securities and financial fraud. He also has extensive experience representing clients in white-collar criminal defense and internal investigations cases and counseling clients on regulatory enforcement matters with the Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC).

Relevant Work Experience

In addition to his time in private practice, Alex spent a year serving as an Assistant U.S. Attorney (AUSA) in the General Crimes Unit and White Collar Crime Unit for the United States Department of Justice (United States Attorney's Office for the Middle District of Tennessee) where he gained valuable investigative, courtroom, and trial experience, focusing on a wide range of violent crimes, firearms and narcotics offenses, and complex health care and financial fraud. Prior to becoming an attorney, Alex worked in finance for Raymond James, Inc. in the Asset Management Division, which provided him with unique insight into corporate and investment finance and capital markets.
