

Justin Berg

Partner

justin.berg@bhgrlaw.com

Justin is empathetic, knowledgeable, patient, and personable in zealously representing his clients and fostering relationships with opposing counsel to get cases resolved quickly and cost-effectively.

Justin's Core Practices

Civil Litigation + Arbitration | Construction | Insurance | Personal Injury

Justin's practice focuses on civil litigation and arbitration, construction, insurance, and personal injury matters.

Civil Litigation + Arbitration

Justin represents individuals and businesses in state and federal courts and in national and international arbitration forums. He handles multi-million-dollar cases for both local and national plaintiffs and defendants, including those concerning construction, personal injury, wrongful death, breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, insurance coverage, large estate administration, residential and commercial leases, and residential and commercial real estate.

Construction

Justin represents clients in all aspects of construction law. He assists local, national, and international clients in negotiating and drafting construction management contracts, design-build contracts, and engineering, procurement, and construction (EPC) contracts with up to $2 billion in value. Justin also helps his clients develop appropriate documentation and correspondence during project execution, advises project management on how to successfully adjust when problems arise before, during, and after performance, and oversees his clients' mechanic's liens and substitution bond claims. When necessary, he litigates construction disputes and has done so on a variety of projects, including multimillion-dollar local, national, and international civil and industrial construction projects; multimillion-dollar national and international mining projects; federal procurement bid protests to the Government Accountability Office in Washington, D.C.; and residential and commercial building construction defect actions under Colorado's Construction Defect Action Reform Act.

Insurance

Justin is well-versed in insurance law. He represents individuals and businesses on insurance coverage and bad faith disputes related to commercial general liability (CGL) policies, employers liability (EL) policies, homeowners policies, automobile policies, payment and performance bonds, and Additional Insured coverage.

Personal Injury

Justin represents individuals and corporations, including Fortune Global 500 companies, in the workplace and jobsite personal injury cases. For example, he represents clients in the pre-litigation claims process, investigation, and litigation in matters involving severe injury and wrongful death in vehicular and workplace accidents, product liability, and related insurance coverage disputes.

More About Justin

Justin co-leads BHGR's Personal Injury Practice Group and has served on the firm's Management Committee.

Education

J.D., University of Houston Law Center

B.A., Rice University

At Rice University, Justin started for four years on the baseball team, receiving all-conference and post season honors, and playing in the 1997 and 1999 NCAA College World Series. After being drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1999 following his senior season, Justin decided to remain at Rice to continue his education.

Admissions

- U.S. District Court, District of Colorado
- Colorado

Admitted pro hac vice in: California, New York, Texas, and the U.S. District Court, District of Vermont

Related Practices

- Litigation
- Construction
- Insurance Coverage
- Personal Injury

Associations

Boulder County Bar Association (Chair, 2004-2005)

Colorado Bar Association

Client Testimonial

Former client, Mary, writes the following about Justin:

I wish words could express how thankful I am for Justin Berg and his work as my attorney on my construction defect case. Justin is incredibly knowledgeable about the law in general and business litigation, insurance coverage, construction defect and construction contract cases specifically, so he guides us down the path that is the most legally effective and financially responsible. He is strategic, patient, honest, and ethical. He is very smart, and he is great at explaining complex legal issues. He always has his clients' best interests in mind. ...Justin is worth every penny and so much more.

Publications + Presentations

Justin presented What to do When a Good Project Goes Bad at the Rocky Mountain Construction Summit (2018). He also presents seminars to his clients' project management and executive teams on requested topics.

Justin C. Berg and Jason T. Pink, Overcoming the Public Impact Hurdle to CCPA Claims, 43 Colo. Law. 67 (2014).

Published Cases

Oeschger v. GeneThera, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 3d 345 (D. Vermont 2019).

Kesling v. American Family Mut. Ins. Co., 861 F. Supp. 2d 1274 (D. Colo. 2012).

Grace Church of Roaring Fork Valley v. Board of County Comm'rs, 742 F. Supp. 2d 1156 (D. Colo. 2010).

Honors + Awards

Colorado Super Lawyers "Rising Star" (General Litigation) (2012-2014)

Out + About

Outside the office, Justin enjoys spending time with his two children, barbecuing his beloved brisket, bow hunting, cycling, fly fishing, golfing, and traveling. He coached youth baseball and has been the vice president of the North Boulder Little League – the most successful Little League in Colorado history. Justin was born in Texas but later moved to Boulder, Colorado. While at Boulder High School, Justin played on the 1992 6A State Championship football team, kicking the winning field goal.